Leesons Primary School is located in the suburban town of Orpington in South East London. It is on the borders of the beautiful Kent countryside and is situated in leafy surroundings with a large forest school and extensive playing fields. The school was recently extended into a two-form entry primary school with a brand-new nursery.

Langley Design were tasked with providing an outdoor seating solution that would offer a fantastic social space for the pupils. As a bespoke manufacturer, we were able to create a whole suite of products that matched the original designs vision. The space was complimented by our solid chunky timber benches alongside plinth mounted benches, and by combining some of our more traditional bench, planter and pergola products we were able to create a whole new product in an all-in-one design.
